

We welcome you to our PfhU newest newsletter

Olyo tya! Hello

I want to begin by thanking you all for your ongoing support. As our PfhU Educational Sponsorship Scheme matures we are starting to see the fruits of our labor. As well as getting an education, some of our PfhU sponsored children are achieving vocational qualifications to provide for their future. Now we have some of Kititi girls getting trained in hair dressing and tailoring. We are helping to support them such that they can smoothly finish their courses.

Cornerstone nursery and primary school

I wish to inform you that Cornerstone nursery and primary school has been opened for our children after a long time of closure due to Covid-19. It was joy and excitement amongst the children and the teachers reporting back at school. The school is operating while observing the standard operating procedures, schools were ordered to ensure COVID-19 safety measures before reopening, including hand washing facilities, temperature guns, and availability of face masks.

Its good news for Cornerstone nursery school, we have all things in place...thanks to PfhU enabling us to implement these measures and we are now fully prepared to carry on the lessons.

As you may all know, we got an influx of people in Kititi village due to closure of some of the nearby landing sites like Baale, Namirembe and Marembo due to floods. We do have loads of children here and we need more sponsors to enroll more children at Cornerstone nursery and primary school in Kititi village.

Children who are taken onto the PfHU sponsorship programme receive the following from us:

- Able go to school – Cornerstone school in Kititi village (school fees paid through sponsorship help to pay teachers and support staff at Cornerstone school)
- Sufficient exercise books and pens
- Porridge at school
- A school uniform (at least once a year)

PfHU Clinic

The success of our pop up clinic shows that the children and villagers are in desperate need of our medical services and Dr. Baker is doing a great job.

Dr. Baker carrying out a mobile outreach in Kititi village

As you may know, there is only one hospital in the area, where you have to pay. The sick have to make long journeys on foot and the very ill have to be carried on our blue truck (there is no ambulance) to the hospital, which is about 5km away!

At Kititi village, Dr. Baker provides much-needed care to people and children in this community. In the past, things were different,” Dr. Baker says. “People had trouble getting proper treatment. Children would get sick and sometimes die.” But thanks to PfHU for the support and we are making a medical progress due to everyone’s financial support. You’re indeed saving lives in this remote and poor village.

Women’s cooperative

Betty – our extension worker provides expert training for cooperative women in Kititi village –to help them to increase their maize and sweet potato yields. She has introduced practices such as using less seedlings, minimum tillage and the use of organic manure. We have already seen excellent results and positive benefits from this initiative. In my next newsletter I will send you more updates and photos on the land prepared for this new season which is starting in March.

Bore hole

The installed water points- 2 boreholes (one at Cornerstone school and the other at Hope house) have eased life in the village since it is near their makeshifts (homes) and little time is wasted in fetching water directly from unprotected open springs which are usually far from their homesteads. Knowing that our Kititi people are drinking from a clean water source is also a huge milestone and a big achievement from PfHU.

The bore holes in this area have been named “ponye obukyaffu,” which means “I am free of dirt,” as the villagers are now able to get safe and clean water.

However, due to ever increasing number of people in Kititi village, there is too much pressure exerted on these 2 water points and there is wear and tear of the machines. This takes a lot of lubrication and greasing. Also replacing the nuts and bolts. Am glad PfHU has been in position to help us fix all problems before it’s too late.

Being a very busy start of the new school term trying to sort out children with their scholastic supply.....I will stop here. I will be back with more good news and updates.

Thanks so much for being part of us and supporting PfHU.
